

Perceiving

God, the unconditional source from which all that is conditional (things) originates and returns after experience, longed to experience Himself and created consciousness (spirit), energy (soul) and the four elements (body).

As conditioned consciousness, as intermediary, God created energy.
As conditioned energy, God created the four elements.

From the four elements, God created heaven and earth, minerals, plants and animals. Finally, from the three primary states of consciousness and the four elements, God created man in his own image and likeness. God placed the energy in the center, called it the soul and saw that it was good.

Man also knows, thanks to free will, the desire to experience himself and the ability to identify. To this identification we owe our ego and our human problems. The website karavanserais.com is intended to provide insight into the creation, recognition and resolution of that which hinders our return to the source. Man know your true self!

A smartphone allows you to communicate visually, auditorily and in writing. In the future, your smartphone will probably also be able to taste, smell and feel. After all, a smartphone is created in our image and likeness. Imagine that your smartphone thinks: "Wow, now I made a nice picture or I really had a good conversation yesterday or in that mail from last week I showed them a good deal." Your smartphone would thus demonstrate artificial intelligence and that is exactly what you have done.

You were born as a human being and have privatized your true self, around your third year of life, and thereby degraded yourself to a bio smartphone, to an ego. You are a human being who has lowered yourself to bio robot. Not a bio robot for energy, like in "The Matrix", but a bio robot for consciousness! Self-realization, is the moment when you realize that this is true for you and for almost every human being. Don't panic, you are and will remain the observing of your life, only at the time you have put a delusion in between.

As a bio robot, as an ego, you don't have to suddenly start doing all kinds of things either. Self-realization or "the full awareness of your state of consciousness," and God's grace do the rest. A few hints: "Egos have opinions, recognize themselves in the mirror, and are subject to constant change." Become human again and don't sin again!

Perception is through attention focused awareness.

Man can go weeks without earth (food), days without water, minutes without air but not a second without fire (perceiving). Of these four elements, fire is so essential that we cannot do without it, consciously or unconsciously. Consciousness is the basis of all creation, without observation nothing can exist. You undoubtedly know the story of Prometheus who, out of compassion, gave man the use of fire. Not the fire of the barbecue or the blast furnaces, but the fire of the mind and free will. Prometheus had to pay quite a price for this because he was chained to a rock and an eagle ate his liver every day which grew back at night. The fate of Prometheus thus describes our process of reincarnation.

We are perceiving; we are constantly perceiving ourselves and our surroundings. Thanks to the fire of perceiving, everything exists but that fire is not a thing, it is the perceiving of things. Pierre Teilhard de Chardin (1881-1955) put it as follows: "Day by day, after we have succeeded in controlling the wind, the waves, the tides and gravity, we will subordinate to ourselves the energies of love and then man will have discovered fire for the second time in his history." The cosmic fire of consciousness through which perception becomes possible. Without the unconditional fire of consciousness no thing can exist but things are subject to change, are always conditional.

The unconditional perceives conditionality.

When you read this, you perceive "yourself" while reading, and at the same time you perceive the reading and what is being read. You perceive, as it were, all sorts of things including "yourself" while reading and the content of what is read. There is reading, so to speak, but there is no reader in reality, there is only the perception of reading by means of a highly appropriate device, your body.

Avalokiteshvara Bodhisattva while practicing the Prajna Paramita saw the five skandhas empty transcending of all suffering and difficulties.

1. The form is empty and therefore there are no difficulties to discern.
2. Feeling is empty and therefore there is no feeling.
3. Thinking is empty and therefore there is no knowing.
4. The will is empty and therefore there is no doing.
5. Consciousness is empty and therefore there is no awakening.

Without form there is no emptiness and without emptiness there is no form. Form then is emptiness and emptiness then is form. The feeling, thinking, will and consciousness are also like that. Sariputra, all these Dharma are phenomena. Not creating, not destroying, not polluting, not becoming pure, not growing, not diminishing. These empty Dharmas are without past, without future, without presence.

Therefore, there is emptiness,
no form, no feeling, thinking, will, consciousness,
no eyes, ears, tongue, nose, body, conscience,
no seeing, hearing, tasting, smelling, feeling, thoughts,
no world to observe, no world to perceive,
no ignorance and no end to ignorance.
No old age and death and no end to old age and death,
no suffering, no yearning, no destruction, no way or path,
no wisdom and no realization.

Therefore, nothing can arise that is attainable. The Bodhisattva relies on the Prajna Paramita. Therefore the conscience is without obstructions. No obstructions and therefore no fear, doubt.

Far beyond deluded thinking, suffering and difficulties. Ultimate Nirvana!
All ancient, present and future Buddhas rely on the Prajna Paramita. That is why they can attain the highest enlightenment. Therefore, one should know that the Prajna Paramita is a great enlightened dharani, is the highest dharani, is the unparalleled dharani and dispeller of all suffering.

This is true and real and not false.

Therefore, say the Prajna Paramita dharani mantra:

"GATE, GATE, PARA GATE, PARASAM GATE, BODHI SVAHA".
